

Constance Lewis is in her second decade of assisting attorneys with a wide range of litigation claims and dispute resolution matters. With a focus on product liability, Constance is dedicated to providing the intelligence and work ethic needed to successfully defend these types of complex disputes.

A skilled litigation paralegal in both state and federal court claims, Constance has significant pretrial and trial experience and has proven time and again her value as a team player, particularly when the stakes are high.

Notably, Constance has assisted attorneys, particularly those designated as national counsel, on numerous asbestos litigation trials for nearly a decade. She is skilled in database management on various platforms, and has managed settlement databases of large numbers of plaintiffs, tracking their information and other details. Notably, Constance is on the team and involved in the database management of talc asbestos litigations nationwide for a Fortune 500 client.

Constance has assisted in managing expert witnesses, preparing trial exhibits and trial documents, preparing and responding to discovery, scheduling depositions and drafting various pleadings. She also prepares reports for and communicates directly with clients throughout the course of representation.

Additionally, Constance has experience in the areas of labor and employment, insurance and personal injury. She has performed various case management activities from the discovery phase through trial and later settlement. She has been responsible for leading teams, as well as maintaining client and case files.
