Kathleen Anderson

A Rundown of Recent Labor & Employment Developments in the Trump Era

Kathleen Anderson, Barnes & Thornburg

Kathleen will highlight recent labor and employment law developments in the "Trump Era," including those related to the Overtime Final Rule that was scheduled to go into effect December 1, 2016, and stated (and/or likely) priorities of employment-related federal agencies.

Mark Kittaka

OSHA Developments Under Trump Administration

Mark Kittaka, Barnes & Thornburg

Mark will discuss how the new administration has affected the rulemaking and enforcement priorities of OSHA, including the delay in the new mandatory electronic recordkeeping rules; prohibitions on mandatory post-accident drug testing policies; safety incentive programs and retaliation; enforcement trends; the Volks Recordkeeping Rule; and union walk-around rights in non-union settings.

Jason Clagg

The Myths and The Realities of Non-Compete Agreements and Related Issues

Jason Clagg, Barnes & Thornburg

Jason will dispel the common misconception (usually among departing employees) that non-compete agreements are simply not enforceable and will then provide practical guidance on how best to protect your business from disloyalty.

Adam Bartrom
