

TAX CREDITS AND COMMUNITY INVESTMENTS

SOLID FOUNDATION

Helping communities grow and neighborhoods thrive is about more than just location and dollars. It's about using creative financing and tax-credit solutions. It's being knowledgeable about the industry and the most recent laws and regulations that govern real estate development in cities and towns across the U.S.

Barnes & Thornburg has an experienced practice in the affordable housing, low-income housing tax credit, new markets tax credit, historic tax credit and community development sectors. Our attorneys represent regional and national investors, developers, syndicators, lenders, housing authorities and housing finance agencies in a wide range of real estate development projects.

Clients across the nation turn to us for assistance with tax credits, tax incentives, community development, real estate development, fund formation, real estate finance, equity investments, partnerships, joint ventures, asset management, leasing and workouts. In addition to our work on residential real estate projects in the affordable housing area, our attorneys work on the acquisition, development and financing of large, multifaceted community development-driven commercial real estate projects; representative projects include food pantries, shelters, retail, entertainment, office, mixed use, manufacturing, school and health care facilities.
