Many states are either reopening or moving in that direction and, as a result, industry experts believe that high volumes of personal injury and wrongful death mass tort cases are just around the corner. Join members of the firm's Litigation Department to take a look at what business leaders need to know as they look to build their company strategies for the months ahead.

Those topics include:

- Risk factors facing businesses and the protections available to them
- The balance between employee consideration and business vitality
- Frequent claims hitting the courts

1.0 hour CLE credit pending.
