November 15, 2022 | Washington, D.C.

James Van Horn, a partner at Barnes & Thornburg, has been elected 2023 global president of The Turnaround Management Association (TMA). TMA is the largest global organization for restructuring and insolvency professionals that serves as a trusted source of expertise, networking, certification, and education for the industry.

“I am excited to assume the highest leadership position of TMA,” said Van Horn. “As president, I look forward to working closely with our chapters in the U.S. and internationally to enhance vibrant programming, expand membership growth, and support our highly successful Network of Women, DE&I and NextGen initiatives. I will also focus on creating more value for our members and the industry by leveraging the influence of TMA to drive restructuring and distressed transaction business to our members.”

Van Horn’s term begins Jan. 1, 2023. TMA is the most professionally diverse organization in the corporate restructuring, renewal, and corporate health space. Established in 1988, TMA has almost 10,000 members in 54 chapters worldwide, including 34 North American chapters. Members include turnaround practitioners, attorneys, accountants, advisors, liquidators, consultants, as well as academic, government employees, and members of the judiciary.

“As inflation and interest rates rise, a recession is either already here or likely coming very soon,” said Van Horn. “Companies currently in distress, or becoming distressed because of inflationary and other pressures, will be forced to borrow at a much higher rate and will face numerous other challenges. This will almost certainly cause a significant increase in defaults and a resulting significant increase in bankruptcy filings. I expect
