

REGULATORY LITIGATION

WHEN IT COUNTS

Barnes & Thornburg's attorneys regularly represent clients before both state and federal regulatory bodies. These matters include licensing and permitting proceedings, investigations, and challenges to administrative rulemaking.

The Firm's attorneys are familiar with the often fast-developing litigation process before administrative tribunals and the particular difficulties regulated entities face when litigating cases before their regulators. Once disputes have been resolved by administrative agencies, the Firm has substantial experience in judicial review proceedings and appeals.

For instance, the Firm has represented clients in more than two dozen reported appellate decisions in the last 15 years. Those reported decisions arose in federal and state courts in 10 different jurisdictions.

Our regulatory experience includes all types of licenses and permitting disputes and includes administrative actions as varied as utility ratemaking decisions, alcohol beverage permitting, federal Medicaid and Medicare issues, environmental disputes and many other species of litigation.
