What to Expect from EPA's PFAS Strategic Roadmap, Developments in the States, the Courts and around the World

USEPA's PFAS Strategic Roadmap contains several planned regulatory and other actions in 2022 and beyond. Independent of the Roadmap, various states are proceeding with regulatory initiatives, and PFAS litigation addressing multiple issues continues to make its way through a number of courts. Additionally, countries around the world are taking different actions to address PFAS. As the ways to contend with PFAS continue to evolve, it is more important than ever to consider the future landscape of PFAS risk management.

In a virtual, moderated panel, lawyers from Barnes & Thornburg and PFAS experts from Ramboll will address your most significant questions and concerns, which we'll collect in advance at registration from attendees, regarding PFAS risk management. We'll also include US and global PFAS regulatory updates as well as our vision for what's next beyond 2022.
