

Co-chair of the firm's Energy, Telecommunications and Utilities group, Teresa Morton Nyhart concentrates her practice on the energy, telecommunications, and other utility industries. She works with clients in litigated as well as transactional matters, client counseling, hearing preparation and crisis communications.

Regardless of the client or difficulty of the challenge before her, Teresa's depth in the law, agility and endless stamina allow her to focus on efficiently and effectively helping clients. Notably, Teresa co-chairs a practice which was the only Indiana commercial law practice ranked Tier 1 on the U.S. News-Best Lawyers Best Law Firms list in 2017 for energy law in Indianapolis. In 2020, Teresa celebrates 20 years of being rated AV Preeminent from Martindale-Hubbell.

Teresa's practice is extensive and includes litigation, transactional, legislative and appellate advice. She counsels clients on such issues as utility rate making, including large contested general rate cases and rate investigations. She works extensively with other aspects of public utility regulation, access to public records, competition, construction of new facilities, customer-specific contracts, alternative regulation and deregulation, energy efficiency, demand side management, energy policy, renewable energy and advises on energy storage and utility of the future strategies.

Teresa also offers comprehensive counsel pertaining to environmental compliance, excess earnings, fair value, fuel cost adjustments, purchased power, and mergers and acquisitions. In addition, she advises on nuclear energy cost recovery issues, pole attachments, regional transmission organizations, renewables, reverse rate cases, Smart Grid, tariff changes, regulatory compliance, the Telecommunications Act of 1996, and other regulatory matters.

Prior to joining the firm, Teresa worked for more than four years in the radio broadcasting and communications industry. Drawing on this experience, she advises clients on crisis communications, media interviews and cross-examination for hearings.
