Barnes & Thornburg Adds Public Finance And Economic Development Partner In Columbus

December 14, 2016 | Columbus

COLUMBUS - Barnes & Thornburg LLP has added Gregory Stype to its Columbus office as a partner in the Government Services and Finance Department. Stype was previously a partner at Squire Patton Boggs.

Stype focuses his practice on public and infrastructure finance and economic development. He has served as counsel to state government entities, including the Ohio Public Facilities Commission, the Ohio Office of Budget and Management, and the Ohio Turnpike and Infrastructure Commission, as well as counties, municipalities and other local entities, new community authorities and other special districts.

Stype also counsels clients on public-private partnerships for residential and commercial development and redevelopment projects. His experience covers the full range of economic development tax increment financing programs and related tax incentives. Stype is familiar with both the public and private sector client perspectives, as well as legal sensitivities of the financial markets.

“Greg has deep knowledge of public-private partnerships and the state constitutional and statutory issues that are associated with complex economic development projects,” said William Nolan, managing partner of the firm’s Columbus office. “He is a valuable addition to our office and will be a great asset to our clients that are actively involved in the state’s booming business scene.”

In addition to his legal practice, Stype is a member of the National Association of Bond Lawyers (NABL) and has been named a Fellow of the American College of Bond Counsel. He is also a member of the International Economic Development Council (IEDC).

Stype received his J.D., cum laude, from The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law and his B.A. from The College of Wooster. He is admitted to practice in the state of Ohio.

With more than 600 attorneys and other legal professionals, Barnes & Thornburg is one of the largest law firms in the country. The firm serves clients worldwide from 13 offices in Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Delaware, Indiana, Los Angeles, Michigan, Minneapolis, Ohio, and Washington, D.C.
