DALLAS – Barnes & Thornburg has added Jason Myers as a partner in the firm’s Corporate Department in Dallas. Myers joins from Hudson Advisors L.P., a global asset management company, where he served as director and senior counsel. He also previously served as counsel at Vinson & Elkins in Dallas for 11 years.

Myers has a track record of handling complex transactional, legal and regulatory matters, particularly in the areas of finance and real estate. Having worked in-house and in private practice during his career, Myers’ experience includes credit facilities, real estate financing, derivatives, and a wide variety of both traditional real estate transactions and specialized projects in the energy, public-private partnership, and M&A sectors.

“Jason’s arrival is further evidence of our growing transactional capabilities in Dallas – a market with tremendous investment opportunities with great upside potential,” said Mark Bayer, Dallas managing partner. “Jason’s deep knowledge of the financial services industry and leadership at a premier real estate investment firm will draw a lot of interest from clients looking to maximize the value of their assets.”
