Tech Trends: What Is in Store for 2019 and Beyond

The shifting landscape of technology has given rise to many interesting and impactful emerging trends: texting as the new email; the Internet of Things (IoT); near daily data hacks; and ever-evolving privacy issues. What practical effects do technological advancements and the data they create have on your compliance processes, e-discovery and other data-related obligations? Join us for a lively discussion of the latest case law developments and trends that will equip you to identify risk and to cost-effectively manage and protect your organization's data.

Privacy, Personal Information, and Cybersecurity: Your (Surprising) New Responsibilities Under Harsh New Laws

New data protection laws are forcing strict new requirements on companies' collection, use, and protection of personal information. Many companies are surprised to learn how laws like the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the California Consumer Privacy Act may apply to their business, even if they are not operating in these areas. The rules of the road have changed and businesses need to take new action now to ensure compliance and protection against fines, litigation, and cyberattacks. This discussion will equip you with what you need to know about the changes in existing laws, the development of new privacy laws and will provide strategies for the changes you will need to implement to ensure compliance.
