Watch On Demand

U.S. presidential elections have consequences – particularly for labor and employment laws. President Joe Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris campaigned on addressing the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, a challenging economy, calls for racial justice, and existing immigration policy, among other priorities. Some of their priorities have already started to affect employers and workplaces across the country.

During this webinar, our South Bend and Elkhart Labor and Employment attorneys will discuss President Biden's executive orders, agency guidance, leadership moves, and other developments affecting human resource departments throughout the country, including:

- COVID-19 response guidance
- Wage and hour developments
- NLRB reversals of Trump-era initiatives
- Immigration Developments
- Much more
