

Employers, You Can Do This

April 23, 2018 | Employment Lessons, Labor And Employment

William A. Nolan Partner Columbus Managing Partner

Being an employer can be frustrating – the rules employers need to follow seem to only increase in variety and complexity, and some employees do the darnedest things. But BT Currents readers should also realize: There are a lot of things that can be done proactively to minimize employee issues. I just wrote this short article trying to pump up employers who are feeling a little down in the dumps. Employers really can handle the challenges before them, focusing on three things:

- Plain old good proactive, mission-focused management goes a long way to employee liability prevention.
- Each employee "move" has a correct countermove; you just have to play the game.
- Never underestimate the value of good hiring. How many times have you thought, I never should have hired that guy?

Click through to read the whole post, and think positive.

RELATED PRACTICE AREAS

Labor and Employment
Management and Employee Training
Workplace Counseling
Workplace Culture 2.0

RELATED TOPICS

Employers